Twenty Something

Darius Rucker

Twenty something, buying coffee you can't afford Making love is keeping score You're sleeping on a couch Cause you got nothing, yeah but you don't give a damn It's your world and they're all just living in it Twenty something for a minute

Thirty something You don't wait to call her back They called you when you left Those hangovers just hang on a little longer Home ain't your hometown Just cause you got twenty bucks don't mean you spend it Thirty something for a minute

It's credit cards and college bars Bigger houses, faster cars Just trying to be somebody, but you end up somebody else Friday nights out with your friends Til a second chance's a second wind Just one more keg then you tell yourself

Forty something Is the new twenty five You think time is on your side But in a flash Fifty something And your daddy's in the mirror Say you're young, but your running out of where you're spending Sixty something in a minute

It's credit cards and college bars Bigger houses, faster cars Just trying to be somebody, but you end up somebody else Friday nights out whiskey friends Til a second chance's a second wind Just one more keg then you tell yourself

Eighty something Is just a number on a page And all you know is that you don't know nothing You still feel twenty something

Ah, you're twenty something Twenty something Twenty something
