

Ghost Bridges

Dark the Suns

Those bridges lay in the quiet mist above the river between two worlds Stream of memories and dying hopes flows through the dark

Black towers are killing all the light and hollow souls roam in the shades In silence they will dwell without faith

I buried pain into my heart
In silence I dwell

I'm one of them

I'd never say it's not a dream timeless moment of everlasting grief
buried by autumn leaves

Tears keep falling like rain falling like rain to the leaves, like frozen leaves to the ground, and darkness into these hearts
