Bringer of Torture

Dark Tranquillity

Young girl so sweet and once so innocent Your life is so brutal, true emotions suppressed You scream but he won't hear a word till he's had his way Victim of the cruelest kind of love

Against his urges there is no defence
The one who gave you life stole your innocence
You want to be at any cost
But you're chained by the shame
And everything seems to be lost

Bringer of torture

You're not afraid of dying Nothing could be worse than this life You're terrified of the pain The pain that returns with the night

Bringer of torture

Insanity and terror, hand in hand Till childhood dreams come to an end This situation, so vile and insane will never be over He's coming back again, again and again