

Dissolution Factor Red

Dark Tranquillity

Drenched in the perfume of hell Impasto of burning oils forming continents on my outstretched naked body, erupting

crimson stains of shame
stains of shame

Limbs that leave their Nests of Red
to spin the reels of pain Attach the nails and electrodes and spin the reels again

Retreating hunger running through the years
carries the scorn on skeleton wings

Storm me thou with the sharpened claw swift hammer nails that pierce the shoulder of time Behind the sunset, with movement regained

For there lie shadows even farther from the light

I run, devoid of motion, devoid of name
attach the nails and electrodes black moratorium, haven of refuge
...
