

The Legacy

Darkest Hour

A legacy that rots with time, cold before it hits the ground,
I've been where those fears lie,
I've heard the screams from the inside,
I know never look back, when memories fade to flashes,
that trust was just a trap, look for my picture in the ashes

Deceit riding under a white flag, a casualty of sincerity

Dust on the gallows,
and not a tear in sight,
just like the old days, perfection rotting from the inside out

A pale face that cracks with age, a blank stare screaming with rage

Sunken cheeks a lonely heart, sadistic seduction you know the part
