

Random Blinking Light

Darren Hayes

You're beautiful
In an asymmetric kind of way
You're face is not a cliché
And you complicate
In a helpful kind of messed up way
But you have good intentions
You don't care for shiny things
Don't wear a puzzle ring
You're always listening to a sea-shell
There is a tiny light
That no-one else can see
It shines inside of me
Can you feel it?

And now I
I'm sending out my love
I'm calling on the universe
Now I
I radiate the vibe
Can you feel the frequency in this random blinking light?

I'm beautiful
In an ugly kind of fucked up way
My face is not a cliché
And I complicate
In a disconcerting heartfelt way
But I have good intentions
I don't care for shiny things
Don't wear a puzzle ring
I'm always listening to a sea-shell
But you have this tiny light
And no-one else can see
It pulses randomly
And I can feel it

Now I
I'm sending out my love
I'm calling on the universe
Now I
I radiate the vibe
Can you feel the frequency of this random blinking light?
It's so full of love
Beautiful feeling, healing
And I
I radiate the vibe
And I can see this answer to my random blinking light

Making it's way through space and time
Are you receiving signals?
Now I
I radiate both dark and light
Spinning through the universe
Thoughts without a word
Sound I've never heard
Oh, oh
Ooh, you are
Oh, oh

And now I
I'm sending out my love
I'm calling on the universe
Now I
I radiate the vibe
Can you feel this frequency of this random blinking light?
It's so full of love
Beautiful feeling, healing
And I
I radiate the vibe
I have found an answer to my random blinking

Shiny thing
You don't wear a puzzle ring
You're always listening to a sea-shell
There is a thiny light
That no-one else can see

You are, you are
You are, you are
You are pulsing
You radiate

You are, you are
You