

Moon Has Imprisoned Me in Her Shine

Darzamat

I travel to find some calm and every night I'm lost between the flowers of my garden and every night you run away from me into the dark

I can see you
I can see you so close you burn the flames you burn the heat I melt the ice I shall be close so soon the mask of ice is loosing greatful power I'm next to you again so close moon has imprisoned me in her shine I follow the voice of my heart lunatics never die

During the day I dream so beautifully as at night during the day I think so dense as at night during the day I picture you so much as at night during the day I look for you so intense as at night