

Annie

Dave Barnes

The night is slowly dying
All of the stars are gone
Your purse is on the table; the TV's on You're lying on the bed asleep, as pretty as can be
I love you, Annie
The day that I first saw you, you changed my mind
See, I was moving forward; I thought I was fine
There was a hole here in my heart that only love could see
I love you, Annie
It's so hard to see
What life without you would be like for me
Would the sky be as blue and the grass as green?
What would I be without you?
Time keeps moving faster, I don't know what to do
The pictures in the hallway will be changed so soon
And I pray that when my life is done that they remember me
For how I loved you, Annie
