

The Lonely One

Dave Mason

There've been moments of despair,
There've been times I could not care
I was the lonely one
Then you showed myself to me
And I found I needn't be
Another lonely one

Running in the wilderness and dreaming in the sun
Cryin' to the sky at night for God's eternal son

Through the truth and through the lies
There is really no disguise
To hide the lonely ones.
You can find them on a card
Being matched with other hearts
The really lonely ones

Running in the wilderness and dreaming in the sun
And cryin to the sky at night for God's eternal son.

Inside your rooms, behind your wall
I see your face,
You know I hear your call.
Is this some madness that's been left unchecked
Or will there always be just promises?

Running in the wilderness and dreaming in the sun
And cryin' to the sky at night for God's eternal son.

There are men that hold the key
To set everybody free
But they are lonely ones.
And if the day should come
When they all can work as one
There'll be a destiny.
Yes, I know..

Running in the wilderness and dreaming in the sun
Cryin' to the sky at night for God's eternal son,
Yeah, yeaheah...
