What Can I Do

David Allan Coe

I never made it back to Boston I've always been a rambling man But by the time I got to Phoenix She didn't quite fit in my plans

I lost my heart in San Francisco And found it in the streets of Baltimore

There must be someone wanting true love Could it be you? Hey vie got so much inside me to give What can I do?

It seemed that Rachel's wings got colder She finally crossed loves cheating line She fell for some young Dallas cowboy Hey, I never saw the danger signs

Whiskey and women was my weakness Jack Daniels let me down again
