

The Most Beautiful Part About This Is

David Archuleta

I try to understand the things your dealing with
My heart goes out to you my friend
Some how you've stuck this out.
Some would call it tragedy, but you know it's a blessing.

Just look how you've grown my sweetest friend.
May angels lift you till the end.
She said look to the sky not the ocean.
When all seams lost and forever bleek, that's the time you must
fall you to your knees

Here I know through your faith
Christ can heal all.
But till that day we must have faith
He words to me will never change.

Just look how you've grown my sweetest friend.
May angels lift you till the end.
She said look to the sky not the ocean.
When all seams lost and forever bleek, that's the time you must
fall you to your knees

And by his grace, you'll see his face.
On that day you shall rejoice.
Through his mercy you'll hear his voice.
Arise and walk my son, let your burden be gone.

Just look how you've grown my sweetest friend.
May angels lift you till the end.
She said look to the sky not the ocean.
When all seams lost and forever bleek, that's the time you must
fall you to your knees.
