Faster, Sooner, Now

Hey now, you got me by the tongue I feel like there's nowhere I belong And they're working it pretty hard And they're selling it by the yard But its more than I can afford That's all that I know

Leader, it comes as no surprise See now, these are coins that were his eyes Silver dollars and hoods of steel Tell me nothing can be revealed The more you get it the less you feel That's all that I know Starts a shivering in my spine And a fever I can't define It gets colder the higher you climb That's all that I know

You kill me with every word you say I'm dead now, along with faith and chivalry Silver dollars and hoods of steel Tell me nothing can be revealed The more you get it the less you feel That's all that I know Colder the higher you climb Colder the higher you climb That's all that I know

David Gray