

Wanderlust

David Sylvian

Help me I feel like I'm weightless
Floating right out of your hands
And there's only so much I aspire to Taking one day at a time
And deliverance has many faces
But grace is an acquaintance of mine
Tell me how could it have happened
You know that we're not the marrying kind.
Travel light, don't think twice
We're leaving the shadows behind.
It's given us, yeah
This wonderful wanderlust.
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
I don't doubt it, I feel it, yeah
Wanderlust, wanderlust

Help me, this waterboy's wasted
Falling right out of your sky
And there's nothing that could do without you
Loving the state that I'm in Between no longer and not yet
On the threshold of some bright affair
The match was struck and I was fired
The embers of a drowning man
Tell me why won't I listen
Or acknowledge that I don't understand
Losing light, a selfish kind
And we're out on the road again.
It's given us, yeah
This wonderful wanderlust.
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
I don't doubt it, I feel it, yeah.

Turn the headlights on full
I want to take in it all
And let it wash over me
The bridge looks so high
From the ledge that we climbed
But we climbed them so that we could be free
Give me no dreams of what the future brings
I need to know when I have gone too far, oh
Repeated lightening strikes
Up and down the spine
They search us out wherever we go
In a world full of lies
That tug at the truth
I'm taking no sides
Now I recognize you.

Wanderlust, wanderlust

It's given us, given us
This wonderful wanderlust

Wonderful, wonderful, wonderful, wonderful

Wanderlust

I don't doubt it, no.
