

Wave

David Sylvian

It seems that I remember
I dreamed a thousand dreams.
We'd face the days together,
No matter what they'd bring.
A strength inside like I'd never known,
Opened the door to life and let it go.
This sun may shine forever,
Upon the back of love.
A kingdom raised from ashes,
And held within your arms.
And should the rain break through the trees,
We'll find a shelter there and never leave.
I'll run to you, nothing stands between us now.
Nothing I can lose.
This light inside can never die.
Another world just made for two.
I'll swim the seas inside with you,
And like the waves, without a sound,
I'll never let you down.
Upon a wave of summer,
A hilltop paved with gold,
We shut our eyes and make
The promises we hold.
A will to guide and see us through,
I'd do it all again because of you.
I'll run to you, nothing stands between us now,
Nothing I can lose.
This light inside can never die.
Another world just made for two.
I'll swim the seas inside with you,
And like the waves, without a sound,
I'll never let you down.
I'd tear my very soul to make you mine.
