Winds of fate

Shut down, you are laying Among the corpses of Your enemies and even Some of your friends You're spilling all over blood Overthefield, over them Leaving a part of you with them all And as the winds of fate Carry away The souls of all those that died on this day You see now that you did as you were told But all you've heard has been a lie Bang! bang! Sing the machinguns Over the plane to Cover the agony screams Of those that die It Looks like a sea shore in a Petrol spread But these fishes They had souls And as the winds of fate Carry away The souls of all those that died on this day You see now that you did as you were told But all you've heard has been a lie And now the winds of fate Carry away The souls of all those that died on this day
