Unending Waves

Daylight Dies

I have memories Clouded by sorrow Of a time in life When blood ran though my veins

But these walls keep closing Suffocating And now i'm trapped beneath The weight of my own loss

In the company Of my misery I gasp for air Only to drown Again

Unending waves of memories Life's only gife bestowed to me

Regret Every moment marks A breaking of my heart And now i'm left alone With this ghost that i've become For years i've built This monument of pain I must find a way To never feel again
