Twisted Story

You're being relentless You're hitting hard Make me forget Say I'm the worst friend ever Say it won't happen ever again You're playing to win now And I already know what's left to go I'm silently waiting To feel sorry for you Quietly hating All the things you put me through

A twisted story that cannot unfold A twisted story to precious to be told Too precious to be told A twisted story that will only be Made up for your own anxiety

My head on your silver plate I'm taken by the enemy Whatever you come up with Please try it out on me I'm silently waiting To feel sorry for you Quietly hating All the things you put me through

A twisted story that cannot unfold A twisted story to precious to be told Too precious to be told A twisted story that will only be Made up for your own anxiety

I'm silently carving My name into you Nothing else to do What have we turned into

A twisted story that cannot unfold A twisted story to precious to be told Too precious to be told A twisted story that will only be Made up for your own anxiety
