

Gone

Deacon Blue

Were you there at the beginning, pacing the roads, walking the streets
Or in the shadows of the summer, close by, but never seen

Were you the figure in the window, seen from some speeding train
Or accidentally in a photograph, of a half forgotten scene

Did I see you from the car, round the corner out of reach?
Were you a swimmer or just a rock, glanced in a moment from the beach

If I never see you one more time, I know you're in all my dreams
It would be everything, just to see you back again
But you're gone
You're gone

Everybody's lost, not just the ones you know
We are reluctant travelers, all trying to get home
Did I see you from the platform, slowly pulling out again,
Did I pass you on the road, almost forgotten by everyone

If I never see you one more time, I know you're in all my dreams
It would be everything, just to see you back again
But you're gone,
But you're gone,
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone

If I never see you one more time, I know you're in all my dreams
It would be everything, just to see you back again

If I never see you one more time, I know you're in all my dreams
It would be everything, just to see you back again
But you're gone,
You're gone
You're gone
You're gone
