

At Her Open Door

Dead Meadow

From the heights of the town her handmaids will announce her undying presence within her seven-pillared house Gifts of gold lie undisturbed
at her open door
Give until nothing's left then
wish to give more Her words ring out all too clearly in your ears
Until all else disappears in a never ending night she shines like boundless light Though she calls quietly know she'll take it all It's alright it's all I need Heaven up above waiting all the time for you to make the age old climb but sliding down takes no time

Gifts of gold lie undisturbed
at her open door
Give until nothing's left then
wish to give more
Her words ring out all too clear

Hers is the love for which rivers flow men fall from ladders to the ground below