

You Are Beautiful

Deaf Havana

Where have you been the smell of loneliness and the heartache of distance is all we have left and when your dress hits the floor it's obvious, it's been well kept, it's obvious

'cause waiting for what seems a fuckin lifetime for a night with you because I belong to you and you are beautiful

I know your heart is full

when we crash down, on these well abandoned bed sheets we'll settle down, as hands begin to wonder and fingers start to creep this house we made, is just enough to keep us warm

and how could I ever leave you behind with a distance as close as this
with a distance as perfect as this

and I could never leave you behind
