

Shoreline

Deas Vail

So you say I'm better off here
As dry as the shoreline
In an ocean of fear

So you say I can't be alive
Until there is nothing
When we're meeting eyes again

Day by day, I wander these halls
And you're casting a shadow
Onto every wall

But all the way you ring in my ear
From the moment I knew you were leaving me here.
You're leaving me here.

This give and take,
This waiting on time
It's this twisted up memory that I can't unwind

These fragile words that fall from my mouth
I'm crumbling and crowded
But I've figured you out
I've figured you out

The shoreline calls the sea
For simple words and company
But words go on and on
Til they collide and all is gone.

I dive into the deep
Into the sea inside of me
To find another song
To find a place where I belong
