

Soulless

Death Angel

WE arrive, and are blinded by twisted rubble, and piercing light
Screaming sounds of the sirens
Rip through the air on this sleepless night

Take this boy, and remind him
Just how fragile his un-sewn life
His daily dose of destruction
Sleeps with his gun, his surrogate wife

Mother fears the door
Baby's off at war
just like dad before
Left soulless

Promised there's an end
Just around the bend
Lost another friend

Soulless ghost in the air
Helpless feeling of despair
Broken Body, Scarred mind
They're Soulless

Men, women, and children
Huddle together, or stand and fight
Enemies, or our allies
Can't tell the difference. He's blind with fright

He reads letters from Mother
Shares photographs from another life
Falling to friendly fire
Today was this heroes final fight

Mother fears the door
Baby's off at war

Promised there's an end
Just around the bend
Soulless ghost in the air
Helpless feeling of despair
Broken Body, Scarred mind

Left Shameless
Left Nameless
Left Faithless

Soulless ghost in the air

Left Sightless

Left Mindless

Left Heartless

Left Hopeless

Gone insane endless pain

Enter the room to find there's no one left

Guiltless time Poisoned mind

Mocking clocks they chime. You're in traction

Wasted days Again betrayed

A once honored hero now stains the mattress

No one calls Blood stained walls

Mother needle holds you to her breast

Skin, and Bones
