

Nothing Is Everything

Death

Living like us and sharing
our day.
In another world very far away.
A different existence, yet
virtually the same.
Aggression is sadness and
laughter is pain.
Look deep into their eyes,
for what they have to say.
Emotions take control of life
everyday.
Unpredictable variations of behavior, hold the key to the mental door.
Where nothing is everything,
and everything is nothing.
Staring beyond the wall a thousand times over.

Seeing a part of them that is real.
Just imagine how it might feel.
To be denied of what life has
to give.
Behind mental shadows they
must live.
Look deep into their eyes,
for what they have to say.
Emotions take control of life
everyday.