Halo

Deep Blue Something

Souls suffer the landscape
In shrouds of dew, as ghosts
The eternity is for searching
But a certain dissension grows

I've seen them wander Voices raised in prayer Consorting with whisper They curse the ones not there

If you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?

I know I'm not your first one
But I pray I'll be your last
I've never seen you cry before
But I know that I'll make you laugh

I know and you know, you've heard this all before These arms are for holding on This heart won't stray from home

If you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?

I know, I know, I know God tell me, where's my Halo?

If you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?

If you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?