

It's black and white picture
A smile from the past
That tattooed the moments we had
Like a treasured possession
A gift from the gods
Everything is falling apart
You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without the rain
I know that you're leaving
And nothing stays the same
Broken heart adventures mislaid
Numbed all my feelings
Take away the pain
The hour hand is stealing you away
You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without the rain
You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without the rain
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'cause you're a shooting star that fell without the rain