

Cupid's Disease

Deine Lakaïen

she noticed a change
what sort of change
"delightful!" she exclaimed do you know your age
what an extravagance
you are nearing the end
am i feeling too well
yes you have to be ill

nobody loves you
nobody loves you
nobody loves you when you are old
and hot

why justify the euphoria after all these years
she is sick our dear
don't want it treated just keep it as it is rejuvenated, reanimated
you got to give it to cupid

nobody loves you
nobody loves you
and hot

yes, cupid's disease
she lived in a brothel
a house of ill fame
caught it from a sailor a dark eyed stranger
in a grey night in solun like lots of the girls
sixty years ago
years ago in solun

nobody loves you
nobody loves you
and hot
