

Nobody's Wounded

Deine Lakaian

I've been praying all night long I've been thinking much too strong I've been walking 'round circles of sadness

You won't see me crying tears don't want to hurt you with my fears I just see we can't go any further

And I question myself again
And I question myself again
Is it possible...

Tired of thinking what we need think I'd better go to sleep situations that seem so familiar

Who's gonna tell me what I want what's the difference between now and then The glass is broken but nobody's wounded

And I question myself again...
