My Travels Through the Midnight Sky

Deinonychus

Breathing my last breath, as I lay stabbed on the floor The last ceremony of the priest will help me no more As they wrapped me in black, and put me into a coffin I knew for sure… I would return!

You fuckers, you're going to pay for what you've done to me Now I dwell thoughout the night… a reason for fear The window stood open, as I slipped into your body That morning after, your soul dissapeared… You were so cold

For candles burned all around, there was a dinner for two Someone else sat in my place, with my loved one in front As I looked into their deeply horrified and stone-cold eyes I knew for sure... They would die!

Yes oh yes, I touched their scared flesh, their remorse couldn't

Help them no more... their souls left with me into the night As the last tears were cried... as I became one with the earth I finally could rest... 'til I returned on my path through the night

My travels throught the midnight sky...
