

A Little Luck

Del Amitri

Have you not met her?
Well, let me tell ya something first, oh yes,
She arrives and your whole life hurts
And you might be forgiven for killing to be with her

Each little gesture
Each little look cuts through your heart, oh yes,
You'll be wishing you never had met
Like I keep wishing that she would ditch him yet

And I know what you're going to say, I want an impossible thing

But you never know what a little luck can bring Yeah, you'll never know what a little luck can bring

Before you see her
Just think how he must once offend
She speaks and your day just melts
And if I wasn't so straight I would change their arrangement my self

But you get crazy
Just watch the way she says his name, oh yes,
There's only so much you can take
So call me romantic, but I got a hunch he's going out of date

And I know what you're going to say, I want an impossible thing

But you never know what a little luck can bring Yeah, you never know what a little luck can bring