One Night Away

Delays

There's nothing in the morning Just flowers and a feeling That yesterday was stalling For time to let the scene in

But you know how everything grows And you know the feeling is love But you're one night away You're one night away

The snow has started falling
And covered our graffiti
I wander through the city
To find we're still in evening

But you know how everything grows And you know the feeling is love But you're one night away You're one night away Oh you're one night away

The feeling is love The feeling is love
