This I Know

Demon Hunter

Let my soul be a silent sword Conceived in the fire of war I am the ruthless bane of the wicked world And I prayed on the killing sworn When I carve my name across this place it is True to violent pain and by your ways

And every breath like a threat for tomorrow's embrace... And the battle is my way I will go this path alone I will take unto my prey This I know

All others will fall

Let my will be a violent path To tear apart what's left All will falls down around my feet when I speak with a word of wrath When I carve my name across this place it is True to violent pain and by your ways

And every breath like a threat for tomorrow's embrace... And the battle is my way I will go this path alone I will take unto my prey This I know I will not release the pain My suffering will show In the fight I find my name This I know

The weight of my call One name above all All others will fall

And the battle is my way I will go this path alone I will take unto my prey This I know I will not release the pain My suffering will show In the fight I find my name This I know

The weight of my call One name above all All others will fall