

One More Day

Descendents

Spent the last years in denial of my grief
Because you hated me, anyone could see
I'll always wonder what I meant to you
And why you hated me, what I did to you

I can't get anywhere, pretending I don't care
Lying to everyone I see, when the only thing I needed was

One more day like yesterday,
I'd pick you up, you'd put me down
Wish you were still around for
One more day like yesterday with you

And in the end we didn't have a thing to say
Still those games to play, then you passed away
I'll always wonder why you had to leave
Why you hated me, then laid the blame on me

Cold antiseptic stares, the smell of the sickroom air
Yeah, I let you go down there, the only child who never cared about

One more day like yesterday,
I'd pick you up, you'd put me down
Wish you were still around for
One more day like yesterday with you

I'll always wonder if I could have meant more to you
I'll always wonder if I could have done more for you
How I could just turn my back
How I could just walk away
How I could just close my eyes and watch you die

We never got along, we never got a chance
To sing our song of love

I loved my daddy boy
Did you love your boy?
Oh, you feel so warm to me now
But it's cold in this room
Tomorrow they'll put you in the ground
Then there's nothing I can ever do to have

One more day like yesterday,
I'd pick you up, you'd put me down
Wish you were still around
For one more day like yesterday with you
