

Chinatown

Destroyer

You can't believe the way the wind's talking to the sea.
I heard that someone said it before.
I don't care, I can't walk away.
I can't walk away, in Chinatown.

The wind and the rain to your detriment you try to explain
A government swallowed up in the squall.
I can't walk away at all, in Chinatown.

I stare at the sky so I know which way
That I drink my wine from a porcelain cup.
I fall down.

You can't believe though I'm sure somebody said it before.
I know you and I know the score.
I can't walk away.
You can't walk away.
I can't walk away.
You can't walk away.
I can't walk away.
You can't walk away.
I can't walk away.
You can't walk away.
I can't walk away.
You can't walk away.
