

Bad Timing

dEUS

Everything is quiet
There, in a pool of light
I would have sworn that she had died
I'm telling you
In all that I will say
In every move I'll make You'll see that I don't fake Even if I wanted to
She passed it on to me
She walked into my life
The ridiculous and sublime
Beneath the lowered sky
She fell in love
And passed it on to me
I threw it all away
Like a record that you don't play
And all the hurt I saved
Well, time had come
I passed it on to her
Do you realize
Do you realize
To look into her eyes
And to let her go
To pass it on to him
Now everything was quiet
I would have sworn that she had died
And I didn't even try....
(Was it bad timing?)
Now all you want to hear
Is everything you fear
So don't you come too near Cause everything you need
You'll get from her
