

As The Storm Unfolds

Devil Sold His Soul

Run

It's obvious that you cannot see
She stands with cupid's heart in her fist
And I have the feeling that I'm losing you again
But yeah, it's alright

Your time is up, you've taken this too far
Your time is up, you've taken this too far
Rise up to fight this witness
Your time is up, you've taken this too far
She said to leave this sorrow
Your sin to powder your eyes
You've taken this too far
Beside you I see the war start
I'm down this road, so what's left?

To fall into you, to give it all again
To pull the sunset from your eyes
And you already have gone
You fool yourself but I can't help but stop fighting you

Run

I still see the fear in your eyes

Wasting away just thinking about the end
I know that this is the last time before it's over
And then it's gone

Beached from the wrath of your own fists
I guess I can't believe a single word that you said
The smokes in the air
Which mean's that you're too late to be saved
This is how we set fire to the storm

Things never change
But was it too much to ask?
I don't fucking think so
I'm already sick of the truth

Complete - a word that you will never want to know
But you don't care
You fool yourself but I can't help but stop fighting you

Run

Watch me fall
Watch me fall
Watch me fall
Just watch me fall