

Blessing In Disguise

DeVotchKa

Is losing something that you love a blessing in disguise who comes and goes into our life not for us to decide You can bury them deep inside but you can never hide
You waited for them long enough
It's time to say goodbye

O my lordy O my god I finally see what's going on I count the fingers that you made me Am I squandering the life you gave me

I never seem to find the words the devil ties my tongue Then I find the perfect words the moment you have gone Are we still lovers we'll never be friends Is this all there is? Is this where it ends?
Was it fate? Was it games of chance?
Are we victims of the circumstances

O my lordy

Bend your words into a prayer send them on a trip some where Let them ring and resonate Kiss your lips and seal my fate maybe losing something that you love is a blessing in disguise you've been their slave for far too long It's time to say goodbye