Til The End Of Time

DeVotchKa

They're just words, they ain't worth nothing Cloud your head and push your buttons And watch how they just disappear When we're far away from here

And everybody knows where this is heading Forgive me for forgetting
Our hearts irrevocably combined
Star-crossed souls slow dancing
Retreating and advancing
Across the sky until the end of time

Oh who put all those cares inside your head You can't live your life on your deathbed And it's been such a lovely day Let's not let it end this way

Like sisters and brothers we lean on each other Like sweethearts carved on a headstone Oh why even bother, it'll be here tomorrow It's not worth it sleeping alone

And look at you and me still here together There is no one knows you better And we've come such a long long way Let's put it off for one more day
