The Prince

Diamond Head

Now I see his face, I've seen him smile Such in a lonely place, no golden mile His eyes tell morbid tales, of his black heart His deeds through ages past, tell of his part

See his face, see his smile Time to die

An angel from below, change my dreams I want for glory's hour, for wealth's esteem I wish to sell my soul, to be reborn I wish for earthly riches, don't want no crown of thorns

See his face, see his smile Time to die

I was born a fool, don't want to stay that way Devil take my soul, with diamonds you repay I don't care for heaven, don't you look for me to cry And I will burn in Hell, from the day I die

See his face, see his smile Time to die
