Push Me

Diary of Dreams

I find myself sinking
Drowning in the past
What is the cause of pain?
And what is meant to last?

I sleep in your stories
Hiding in the dark
I have to calm down again
Let me please feel save at night

Stop pushing me away
I'm blinded and I'm lost
Too many lines been crossed
And you're a little late

In the depth of this moment
You avoid the world outside
In the heartbeat you know
That nothing is alright

And nothing really matters
when everything collides
And nothing really matters
when I stay behind the light

Only for one of us
the burden ends here and I know you feel the same
Every one of us knows how to end this
But will you dare, or will you set me free?

Heal me before you break me
Hear me before you break me

Stop pushing me away
I'm blinded and I'm lost
Too many lines been crossed
And you're a little late

You have no reason to forgive me
Time has never set things right and as I fail, I fail to let you go
And you're a little late
And as I fail
I fail for you…
