

You'll Never Know

Die Happy

You're a butterfly and I'm the flower that you rested on You were bathing in the sun and I was swaying you around

Softly carried you through winds and hid you from the rain Then you lifted up your wings and disappeared just like you came

Chasing a nice dream
Where have you gone from here

You'll never know how much I love you
If you walk away
Find a distant place again

You'll never know you how much I wish You find the perfect place on earth

You'll never know how much I love you
With no second chance
If you don't look back again

You'll never know what I could give you And maybe you don't care at all

You're a butterfly and I'm just one station in your long life
No regrets and no goodbyes, no
And I still can't hate you

I didn't do anything to hold you back, cut off your wings
Build a trap to keep you here by my side You just lifted up your head and flew without a doubt

No happy end for me
Where have you gone from here
Another one who you amaze and break
