

Avoid The Friction

Diffuser

my generation as nation has a reputation for looking out for themselves abnoxious and self-righteous i realize the warning sings are so alive since i heard your friends have been talking shit and now you bite your lip dont tell me to avoid the friction im one step closer to infliction why are your actions contradictory of the words that you say ive seen your kind a million times and still i find the one thing that you could never get around the repercussion turns you out your ignorance and arrogance ignite a tolerance that pushes me to react i think your better watch your back so typical to say the words you say then shuffle around the blame i think you better walk away before i get in your face