She's burning out on apathy
Unsure of where she wants to be
If she could change the world I think she'd rather sleep
18 and feeling out of place

Frustrated that she can't relate
Knee deep in disillusion of her mental state

In time you will learn to stand up on your feet 'Cause only in the movies can you replay every scene Until it comes out clean

Move to a lower east side dorm

She's got no friends to call her own

Still can't get used to living far away from home

So bored to death of being bored

Ambition seems to go ignored Her disposition is decaying at the core

In time you will learn to stand up on your feet Cause only in the movies can you replay every scene Until it comes out clean

All things are good and some are bad

It's really what you make of it

You're locked inside a world that's planned out just for you

She's burning out on apathy
Unsure of where she wants to be
If she could change the world I think she'd rather sleep

In time you will learn to stand up on your feet 'Cause only in the movies can you replay every scene Until it comes out clean
