

Why should I worry 'bout a story that has just begun
It seems like I am sorry for a song that I have sung
My head is kinda oversized 'cause I just have done
No spaces left for the rest of what is going on

Its such a situation where your stuck in your own time
We call it obligation to admit that we are fine
Just tell your destination that your gonna be delayed
You have to build your own excuse for what is being played