Why

Diorama

you put these thoughts in my brain none of these thoughts are here to remain life passes on and leaves you behind caress you one last time erase you from my mind i kept my faith with your hologram eyes spiraling reflections distorted in lies infinite loops with dreams on repeat a missing dimension that never gets concrete

we came to an end but why do i care it wasn't my fault it wasn't my fault i'll see you again after the fall wait for me tonight wait for me tonight stuck in a blind spot no truth to reveal you numb the trauma but you never heal dark storms ahead I no longer care if suffering is our target i have to meet you there

we came to an end but why do i care it wasn't my fault it wasn't my fault i'll see you again after the fall wait for me tonight wait for me tonight