Last Breed

Disarmonia Mundi

Every second seems so meaningless Just like a whirlwind of dust And all you witness is a part of me The one that I distrust

I am the fallen one And I don't give a fuck at all So just step aside Digging your every sin In my mental crawl

But as I look into your empty eyes And taste the coldness of your heart I feel the poison rushing through my veins Slashing my soul apart

I fell from grace and cursed your name Burnt to ashes just to rise again I fed my lust upon your anger And shed my seed into your embers (And still feels like the first time)

Entwine the sense in this place of anger And for a very last time Let me see your soul burning And as I kneel among the ruins of the chambers of the morgue I know that I'll be here waiting for centuries to come