

What's up

Discoballs

Settin' up
To head out in the right direction Looking forward to what things are in the way Slowly getting used to leaving all my friends behind and trying to forget i could stay

Searching for my place to go Such a place that you might know and to show me how to get there There is something inside me pressing on me heavily that's making me loose sence of time and place

So what's up with seeing all your angry faces sober up to find your own meaning of life Just be opening your eyes you might discover there is more To life that one could ever pray It's so easy to stay

Wondering through summer rain won't make you get another chance to end your suffering why you even brother wondering through summer rain.
