When Morning Comes

feel the burn feel the demons come to mix fill the street with madness - don't lay your hands and lesions over me fall instead where midnight dies and morning comes feel it here the silence there's so much life here and so much pain - we forget there's so much life as morning comes and its real - the silence see the sun forever falling let the setback slip through the cracks keep us safe from ever crawling let me know a life so sweet there's so much life here and so much pain - we forget there's so much life as morning comes and its real - the silence say you wanted love and you want it to feel so real forever - well remember why you have come and all the shit that's caving in is gone forever
