

Headlights

Dispatch

headlights
highways
your life collides with mine

leavin' our shoes behind we cross the water
our words flow
from mouth to mouth
like fish seeking dark places the mist covers our traces covers our faces

headlights
highways
your life collides with mine

we're stepping into shelter movin out of shadow
we made some wrong moves
along the way
oh we might have strayed will I forget your face and your fluid gait
or will I stare into the stillness this is where I miss you so long
th what's done
how come we've gone
so much time's been wasted so many thoughts been lost on you

headlights
highways
your life collides with mine

cold wind rushes
down on my face
smoke heats the black throat of the chimney

the door is open
come on inside...
