Pain Redefined

Disturbed

Fading, falling, lost in forever Will I find a way to keep it together? Am I strong enough to last through the weather In the hurricane of my life?

Can it be a conscious decision That I look for ways to alter my vision? Am I speeding towards another collision In the alleyways of my life?

Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Those who have fallen in

Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Those who have fallen in

Please believe me that my eyes deceive me Don't stand me up just leave me I have fallen again, this is the end Pain redefined

Shaking, burning up with the fever In the realm of pain, I am the deceiver Now I lie to myself, so I can believe her As she disassembles my life

I cannot dispel the illusion All my hopes and dreams are drowned by confusion Can I find a way to make a solution That will reconfigure my life?

Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Those who have fallen in

Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Memories don't lie, you know better than Those who have fallen in

Please believe me that my eyes deceive me Don't stand me up just leave me I have fallen again, this is the end Pain redefined

And I know that stillness shatters We have all been frightened by The sound of footsteps on the pavement of our lives I stand and fight, I'm not afraid to die Elochai, bury me tonight

Please believe me that my world deceive me

Don't stand me up just leave me I have fallen again, this is the end Pain redefined