There's A Last Time For Everything

Division of Laura Lee

Lust obsession and patience That is all there is, and your nasty hiss Trust is no longer lasting When i'm gone, you move on Cause there's a last time for everything Yea, there's a last time for everything Power money and broken dreams That is all you've seen All fantasies fading Cause your vision's mean, but please dig in Cause there's a last time for everything Yea, there's a last time for everything Footprints in the window From someone who's my friend That will be my doorway When i'm back again There's a last time for everything There's a last time for everything Yea, there's a last time for everything Footprints in the window From someone who's my friend That will be my doorway When i'm back again
